LOS ANGELES

OPEN HOUSE

IL BUCO VITA

Donna Lennard, owner of New York's popular il Buco restaurants, has brought her home decor boutique to Los Angeles. In Culver City shopping destination Platform, il Buco Vita brings a thoughtful curation of tabletop items that celebrate craftsmanship and Mediterranean authenticity to the West Coast. We met with Lennard to learn more. ilbucovita.com

Tell us about the space. Compared to our Manhattan and Amagansett stores, this one is very tailored to Los Angeles. It's wide open, with an outdoor area where customers can enjoy the sunshine and a coffee. The interiors were designed by myself and my business partners, Lorenzo and Antonello Radi.

What will visitors find? Handmade pieces that keep treasured Italian craft techniques alive. Our ceramics, glassware, linens and other housewares are modern yet classical in style, and honor the artist's hand. There are antique ceramics too, and Antonello's charming still life art and paintings of traditional Umbrian scenes.

What's unique to this location? Our first-ever offering of exceptional antique quilts. Many were crafted in Mennonite communities across Pennsylvania. I've been collecting them for decades!

IN THE KNOW

THE PARK CLUB CALIFORNIA

A members-only social club, The Park Club California has opened in Costa Mesa on the garden level of Center Tower, joining such vibrant landmarks as the Segerstrom Center for the Arts and South Coast Repertory, as well as the Orange County Museum of Art and South Coast Plaza. The club was designed by Venice-based interiors firm Studio Collective, whose goal was to "embody the vibrancy of the local art scene," says the firm's partner and design director, Adam Goldstein. "Our mission was to weave the rich cultural fabric of the club's surroundings into its DNA." The entrance will feature exhibitions of California artists, while the interiors offer a welcoming retreat with custom furnishings in a natural palette. Along with the Monet Restaurant, helmed by Chef Daniel Hohng, and the Palm Bar, eight unique spaces can host private meetings and special events. The club's programs will include pre- and post-theater gatherings, supper club concerts, art receptions, culinary tastings and wine dinners. parkclubca.com
